

R&D Manager

Leads system oriented complex technical project

Leading a team of engineers and technicians directly as well as cross functional Establishes and maintains team member and project stakeholder relationships, expectations, and communications. This includes Quality, Operations, Manufacturing and Regulatory

Conduct pre-clinical trials

Measures project performance using appropriate tools and techniques in order to monitor the progress of the project, identify and quantify variances, perform required corrective actions, and communicates to all stakeholders

Requirements:

Bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering, Degree in Bio-Medical engineering – Advantage

10 – 15 years of experience in mechanical / system engineering R&D

Strong design capabilities. Experience in small mechanisms design

Proven technical leadership of a medical device project

Structural heart medical device experience – an advantage

Fluent English

Location: Caesarea

anna@hrhome.co.il