

The Biomedical Optics group is looking for a graduate student for a research project on imaging tympanic membrane vibrations. This technology allows rapid laser scanning of the human tympanic membrane, providing high-speed functional imaging for the diagnosis of various hearing problems. The research involves building the optical setups and the control system, develop algorithms for interferometric data analysis, and conduct clinical trials in human patients.

Please contact Prof. Dvir Yelin at yelin@bm.technion.ac.il .